

One of our main goals as a movement is to promote government models that 'listen'. We are in favour of consistent governmental consultation as an antidote to arrogance. Governments that consult with social partners and citizens, not only opportunistically before an election, but with consistency from the first day in office.

This message will be repeated consistently to any government and to any political party. We believe that such consultation is one of the pillars of good governance. We are in favour of members of parliament who are humble enough to 'listen' to all the stakeholders of society.

This very movement is built upon consultation. The only requirement is that persons who join the movement are capable of entering into a moderate and balanced dialogue with people from different backgrounds - with the aim of identifying what is progress, what comes next, what can be done, what solutions exist and which ideas can make this country so unique and special. A country at it's best and as a result one of the best countries to live in, in Europe.

As a the movement we are ready to listen to your experience of living in Malta and Gozo up to the last detail... and yes up to the very last detail, because if we really aspire to make the best out of this country we need to take note of every single detail.

Let's take a practical example: let's say that a politician is stating what a success these islands have become to the extent that they are already one of the best countries to live in, in Europe. But your experience is different, while walking out of your home, you see a different Malta, you witness lack of progress, possibly an injustice, mediocrity, a society which does not fulfill your aspirations, in a few words, you experience a country which is different from the one described by the politician.

In such a situation, what's the worth and value of the Malta and Gozo the politician is seeing if it's not the Malta you are experiencing while going to work, while driving, while at home, during your social time. Precisely due to this, we are inviting you to be part of this movement, our goal is progress, make this movement yours, may you be the eyes, ears and hands of this movement, we encourage each and every Maltese citizen to defy the thought that their ideas are not valid. Your ideas, plans, thoughts, solutions might very well be your tomorrow, the beginning of change for this country.

Our message as a movement to every Maltese and Gozitan citizen is the following: we are interested in your ideas, may you be a protagonist of tomorrow, a fully participative and active democratic citizen, one of those persons who will create a progressive vision for this country, in a constructive way which builds upon the good already started by previous governments.

We do also believe that if there is a time which offers the opportunity for consultative governance, it is precisely today's virtual age. A period in history which provides quality systems of communication beyond measure.

As a movement we hope that we will soon witness the day when consultation with the people and social partners will become one of the main methodologies within governmental operations.

If you do have proposals about how these islands can truly be further transformed into one of the best countries to live in, in Europe and are ready to pro actively work towards progress in the
